Protection and Resilience Unit (PRU)

Psychosocial Mobile Team (PMT): With the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic in Türkiye, refugees, migrants, and host community members suffer additional psychological stressors brought by the effects of lockdowns, loss of job opportunities, inability to meet basic needs, and self-isolation. To address increasing mental health and psychosocial needs, community-based Mental Health, and Psychosocial Support (MHPSS) provision was made available to individuals through the Psychosocial Mobile Teams covering a range of services including MHPSS, COVID-19 information dissemination, and awareness-raising sessions. Over the year, the PMT reached 7,772 beneficiaries through a variety of activities.

To build harmony in the community, IOM Türkiye's Psychosocial Support team organized a football tournament in Şanlıurfa for young Turkish and Syrian girls.

People with disabilities are on a cultural trip to Göbeklitepe organized by IOM Türkiye's Psychosocial Support Team in Şanlıurfa.

Municipal Migrant Community Centre: In partnership with the Şanlıurfa Metropolitan Municipality, IOM supports both communities to access to services available to them. This includes psychosocial support, counselling on access to different services along with socio-cultural activities. Over the year, the PMT reached 28,610 beneficiaries through a variety of assistance and activities. And 7,362 beneficiaries supported with COVID-19 info and hygiene kits.

Emergency Case Management: Supports both individuals and families with specific, complex, or multiple assistance needs not addressed through existing services. This includes medical assistance, transportation, accommodation, food, non-food items and other tailored needs. Over the year, the ECM reached 776 beneficiaries in Şanlıurfa and 265 in Mardin through a variety of assistances.
